'OUR MAIN MOTTO IS TO EMPOWER YOUNG, UNDERPRIVILEGED PEOPLE'

Part of a life skills training unit, the quaint Hope Cafe is run by an NGO and has a group of eight underprivileged men and women. Renu Singh, the cafe manager, said, "Our main motto is to empower young people from the underprivileged or economically backward background. We do not have any qualification restrictions, but every trainee must be 18 or above. We train eight trainees for six months and then provide them jobs by sending them to other cafes in town."

What's more? The cafe is run by only women, except for just one male helper in the kitchen. For Renu, the cafe's biggest achievement is the placement of their trainees. "The fact that they are economically independent and can sustain themselves is an unmatched feeling," she added.
